

BIOGRAPHY

Danny Weiss is an active performer and band leader in Northern Indiana. Currently living in West Lafayette, Indiana, Weiss spent many years in New York and Chicago. He has performed with the avant-rock band DaDaDah, the brass jazz band NoNoNonet, Latin jazz bands, the klezmer band Yid Vicious, Broadway show bands, and with New York dance choreographers. Weiss has also performed with such jazz notables as Rashied Ali, Tom Varner, Joe Williams, Chris Washburne, Michael Sarin, Lynn Arriel, Clyde Stubblefield, and Don Braden at venues including the Jazz Showcase, Birdland, CBGBs, the West End Gate, PS 122, Jay's, the Knitting Factory, and the Bitter End. One of his current groups – à gauche – is about to release its first recording on the Pow! Records label called "Into the Ooze."

Weiss has been a private studio instructor for over 30 years. He offers lessons in clarinet and saxophone technique and jazz improvisation in a patient, nurturing environment. His studio is open to students of all ages. Please contact Danny at the e-mail address or phone number below for more information.

Weiss is also a senior lecturer at Purdue University-West Lafayette in the Department of Music. He holds a Master of Music degree from Indiana University-Bloomington.
